

Hong Kong Roofscape

(香港的天台景緻)

Have you ever seen Hong Kong, the city that we all living in, from this angle?

Try to share the experience with Raymond Wong and understand more about our city from a different and uncommon prospective.

This photo series was prepared by Raymond Wong for an photo exhibition organized by City University of Hong Kong in March 2008

Roof, as the city background

Roof, as the city
background

Roof, as the city
background

Roof, as the city background

Scene on roof uncommon to usual eyes

Scene on roof uncommon to usual eyes

Traditional roof hidden inside modern city

Traditional roof hidden inside modern city

Traditional roof hidden inside modern city

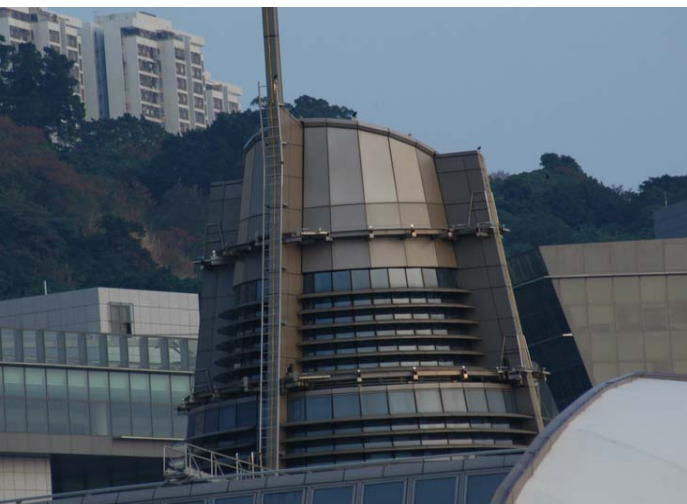

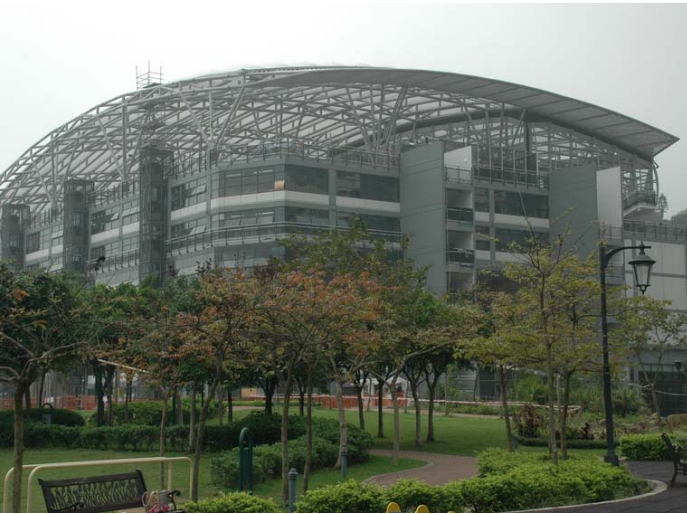

Traditional roof hidden inside modern city

Eye-catching roof

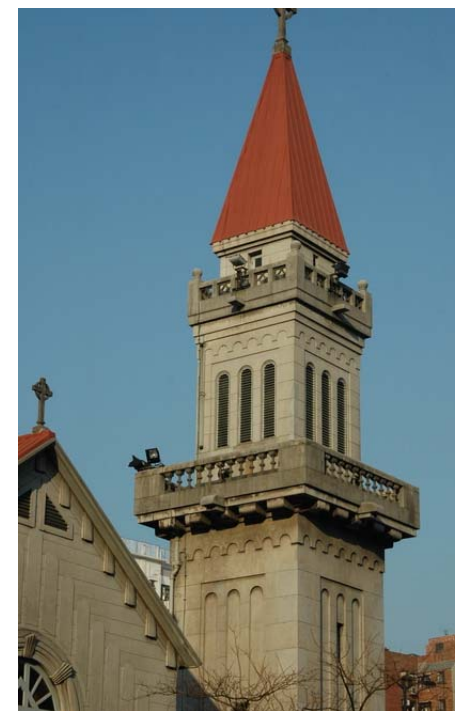

Eye-catching roof

Roof detail

Roof detail

Roof detail

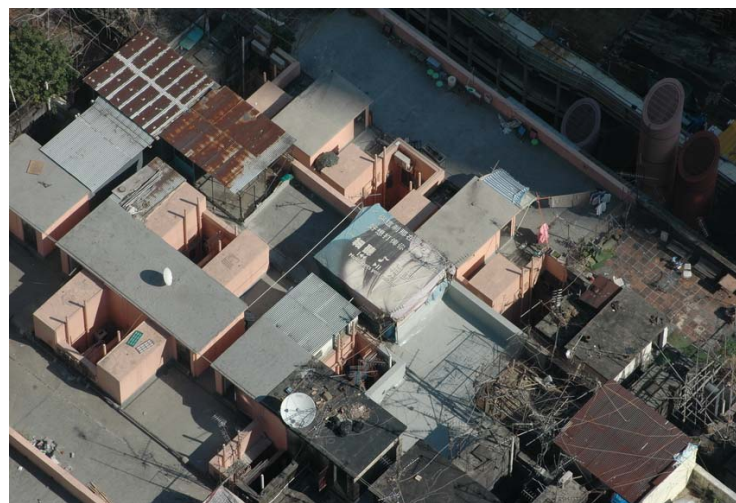

Roof detail

Roof detail

Roof belongs to the grass-root

Roof belongs to the grass-root

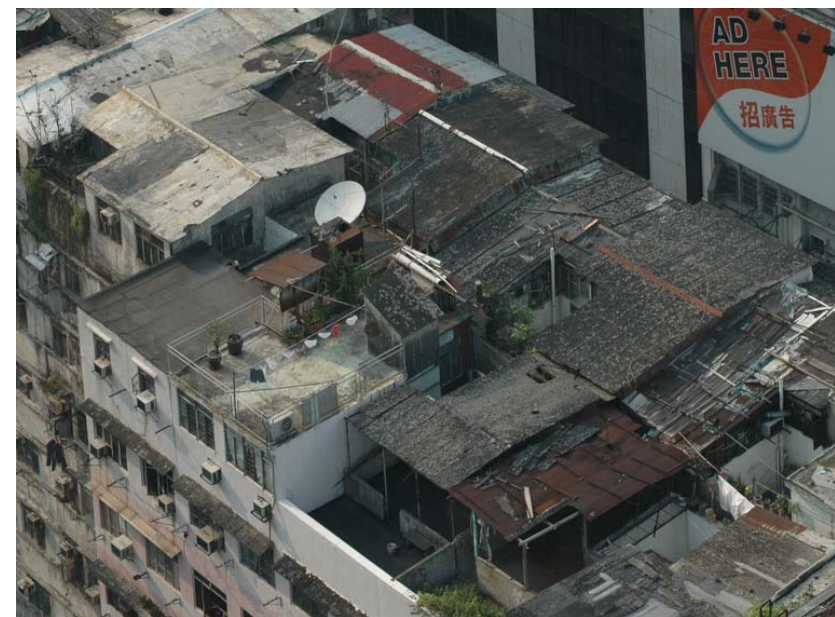

Roof belongs to the grass-root

Roof belongs to the grass-root

Roof belongs to the grass-root

Roof belongs to
the grass-root

Roof not so easy to reach

Roof not so easy to reach

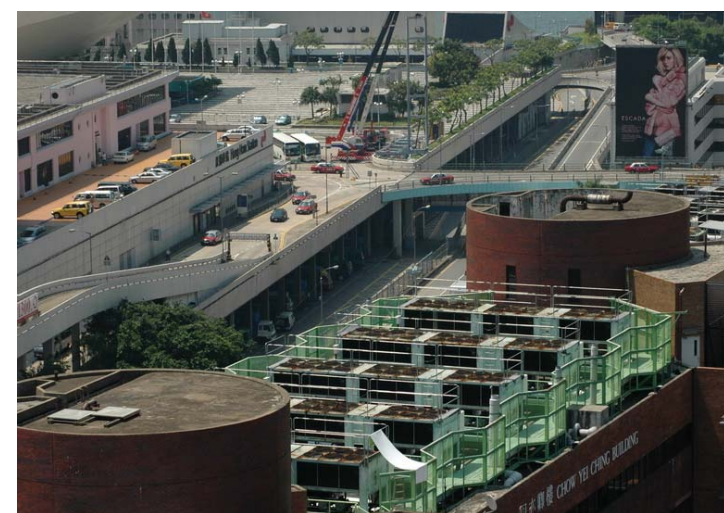

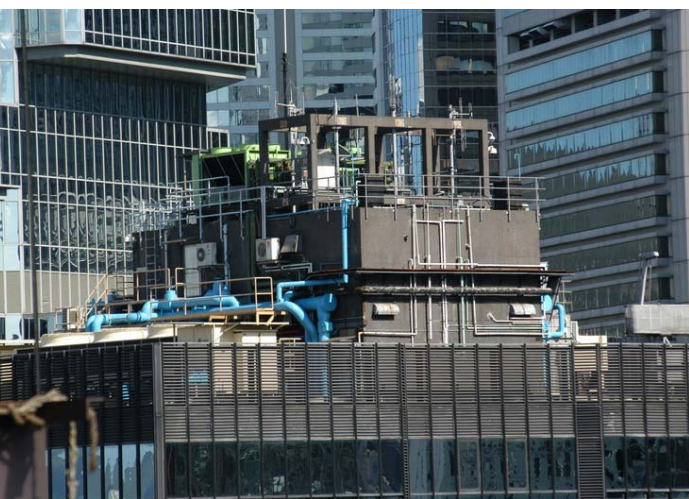

Roof, a comfortable place to relax

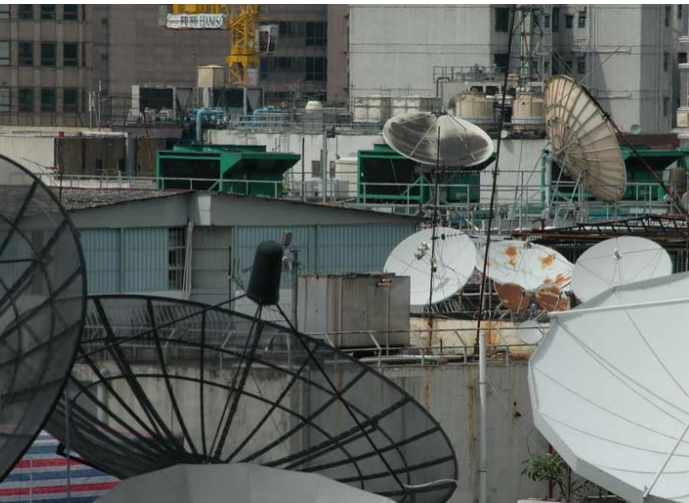

Roof, a living place

Roof, a living place

Roof unfriendly to human touch

Roof unfriendly to human touch

There are a lot of stories to tell for roof and roof top. Scene on roof can reveal some un-notice reality inside a city. It also witness the evolution of a community. It depends on whether you have a clear and consistent heart to read it.